

Tori shows off her nursery

What baby boy wouldn't want to live in the chic room Tori created for her son?

Tori Spelling grew up in a Beverly Hills mansion surrounded by the best things money could buy, so when it came to creating a nursery for her son (Tori's due in March), she spared no expense! Tori asked Katy Mimari of Caden Lane & Nursery Couture to help her create the perfect space. "She wanted a fun and playful room with contemporary design elements," Mimari says. And Tori, 33, couldn't be happier: "Knowing his crib is waiting for his arrival, everything became that much more real," Tori tells In Touch.

Steal her style

Everything from the NurseryWorks Aerial Crib to the Big Jungle mobile by BlaBla is available from nurserycouture.com. The furnishings were inspired by Tori's choice of blue and green bedding. And her husband, Dean McDermott, is pleased with the results. "He was speechless," Mimari says. "He thought it was a peaceful, chic haven."

Very versatile

"We are thrilled to be having a son," Tori says. And he can enjoy the NurseryWorks changer even after he's grown up. If you take the top off, it doubles as a dresser—which means it can be a part of her son's room forever!

And baby makes four

Tori has been using her original baby, pug Mimi La Rue, as practice for motherhood. And Mimi made sure she didn't get left out of the shopping fun by getting her paws on this Caden Lane bib.

What a hot mama

This adorable onesie by Urban Smalls says it all. Even in Tori's eighth month of pregnancy, "she looks fabulous! Her belly is perfectly round and she is absolutely glowing," says Mimari.

